Class is full, what do you do?

You will need to email the instructor to request add codes. The instructors who teach online courses will communicate with you via email.

All ECC, Compton Center students have an email account with the college. If the instructor approves, you will receive two different numbers which are the add codes you will use to register.

The add codes do not work. What do you do?

Inform your instructor that the system is not accepting the codes and contact the Distance Education office at 310. 900.1600, extension 2137 or email: distanceEd-cec@elcamino.edu for further instructions.

The course is not full and has started, but you can't add the course.
