

CIS 18 Systems Analysis and Design

In this course the student will study structured systems analysis, design, and development as applied to business data processing. Topics emphasize tools of the analyst and the systems development life cycle, which includes problem definition, feasibility study, analysis, process modeling, data modeling, logic modeling, software development choices, and maintenance of systems. Implementation and maintenance of systems.