Compton College Joins Los Angeles County Community Colleges Jobs Consortium Employers Can Now Reach More Job-Ready Talent

Local employers and Compton College students seeking jobs have a new resource for matching open jobs and trained talent from community colleges, thanks to the Compton Community College District's new partnership with the College Central Network, Inc. and its FREE Los Angeles County Community Colleges Jobs Consortium website.

The CollegeCentral.com/laccjobs website makes it both FREE and easy for all employers—large and small, public and private—to register just once and then post an unlimited number of job openings to be viewed and applied for by community college students and alumni in Los Angeles County. This is an extraordinarily useful resource for employers hiring in today's climate as well as for students seeking jobs, especially while students are attending classes virtually.

Employers posting jobs today can simultaneously reach tens of thousands of job seekers within our member colleges of the Los Angeles County Community Colleges Job Consortium, which includes Compton College and a dozen other local community colleges.

“Compton College's services and programs are available to nearly 300,000 residents of Compton, Lynwood, Paramount, and Willowbrook, as well as portions of Athens, Bellflower, Carson, Downey, Dominguez, Lakewood, Long Beach, and South Gate,” said Lynell Wiggins, Compton College's director of Adult Education and Workforce Development. “Compton College and its career training programs generate thousands of jobs in our region. We provide resources to our students and community members to meet the workforce needs of our local employers.”

Wiggins added, “Joining the Los Angeles County Community Colleges Jobs Consortium expands our access to employers and brings far more job opportunities to Compton College students who are seeking jobs. We're excited to be part of this larger effort to highlight and retain Los Angeles County's diverse emerging job talent. It makes it easier for employers to hire the workers they need and to keep Los Angeles County's economy strong.”

Employers who still need to target timely job postings as they navigate through the pandemic, while also accommodating their regular hiring needs, will find this website an economic and useful tool. They can conveniently post to this website one time and go countywide or target specific areas near consortium member colleges.

“Community colleges can have a great impact on the County’s economy,” said Joy Miller, national sales manager for College Central Network’s Career Services Central®. “The Los Angeles County Community Colleges Jobs Consortium website allows employers to easily recruit the County’s home-grown entry-level talent by removing as many barriers as possible, simplifying the hiring process. This is especially critical given the added current complications of closed campuses and remote learning.”
